

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased in the UK. The prevalence of mental health problems has increased from 10% in 1990 to 15% in 2000 (Mental Health Foundation 2002). The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment. The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment. The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment. The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment.

The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment. The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment. The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment. The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment.

The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment. The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment. The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment. The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the UK because of the increase in the number of people with a mental health problem who are not receiving treatment.

[Redacted text]

[Redacted text]

[Redacted text]

[Redacted text]