

[Illegible text]

[Illegible section header]

[Illegible text]

[Illegible text]

[Illegible text]

[Illegible text]

[Illegible text]

the 1990s, the number of people who have been employed in the public sector has increased in all countries. In the United States, the public sector has grown from 10% of the total workforce in 1970 to 17% in 1995. In the United Kingdom, the public sector has grown from 10% of the total workforce in 1970 to 18% in 1995. In the United States, the public sector has grown from 10% of the total workforce in 1970 to 17% in 1995. In the United Kingdom, the public sector has grown from 10% of the total workforce in 1970 to 18% in 1995.

There are several reasons for this increase. One reason is that the public sector has become a more attractive place to work. This is due to a number of factors, including the fact that the public sector is often seen as a more stable and secure place to work than the private sector. Additionally, the public sector often offers better benefits and job security than the private sector.

Another reason for the increase in public sector employment is that the public sector has become a more important part of the economy. This is due to the fact that the public sector is now responsible for a larger share of the country's output. In the United States, the public sector now accounts for about 17% of the total workforce, up from 10% in 1970. In the United Kingdom, the public sector now accounts for about 18% of the total workforce, up from 10% in 1970.

There are also several reasons why the public sector has become a more important part of the economy. One reason is that the public sector is now responsible for a larger share of the country's output. This is due to the fact that the public sector is now responsible for a larger share of the country's output. In the United States, the public sector now accounts for about 17% of the total workforce, up from 10% in 1970. In the United Kingdom, the public sector now accounts for about 18% of the total workforce, up from 10% in 1970.

Another reason for the increase in public sector employment is that the public sector has become a more important part of the economy. This is due to the fact that the public sector is now responsible for a larger share of the country's output. In the United States, the public sector now accounts for about 17% of the total workforce, up from 10% in 1970. In the United Kingdom, the public sector now accounts for about 18% of the total workforce, up from 10% in 1970.

There are also several reasons why the public sector has become a more important part of the economy. One reason is that the public sector is now responsible for a larger share of the country's output. This is due to the fact that the public sector is now responsible for a larger share of the country's output. In the United States, the public sector now accounts for about 17% of the total workforce, up from 10% in 1970. In the United Kingdom, the public sector now accounts for about 18% of the total workforce, up from 10% in 1970.

